
Women Leading in Education East Midlands North Network

The second session in this network will provide an opportunity for current and aspiring school leaders to meet and discuss how to get the best out of the people they lead and the joys of leadership. We are delighted to welcome Jill Berry to the event as our keynote and we will also be discussing the development and shape of the network for future sessions.

Please do come along and find out more.

Date: Tuesday 2 July 2019

Time: 4:30pm—6:00pm

Cost: Free for all

Venue: The Redhill Trust Training Centre

Bookings: RTSAenquiries@theredhillacademy.org.uk

Keynote speaker: Jill Berry (@jill berry102 and jillberry102.blog)

Jill is a former Head teacher and since leaving headship in 2010, has worked as an Associate for the National College for Teaching and Leadership, carried out a range of educational consultancy work and completed a part-time Doctorate in Education, consequently writing her book 'Making the Leap: Moving from Deputy to Head'.

Jill has been involved in #WomenEd, a network designed to support aspiring and serving women leaders in education, since its inception in 2012. She has conducted academic research on the development of the initiative with Dr Kay Fuller from Nottingham University; spoken at several #WomenEd events, and contributed a chapter to the #WomenEd book: '10% Braver – Inspiring Women to Lead Education'.

For more information contact Jo Giles, East Midlands North Women Leading in Education Champion, on j.giles@theredhillacademy.org.uk

National Teaching School designated by

National College for Teaching & Leadership

Redhill Teaching
School Alliance

Fortiores Una

